It is expected that as far as possible all meetings in Christian churches during the week of his visit will be abandoned. The association invited Doctor Willett to deliver this course of lectures more than a year ago, and for the last eight months the time has been set. The lectures will conflict with the last week of the Campbell Morgan meetings. Both Mr. Morgan and Doctor Willett go to Cincinnati after filling their St. Louis engagements. An effort was made to have their dates reversed, but it was not successful.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR TOPIC. Bringing Others to Christ-John I, 40-45, Iv, 6-10; Mark v, 19, 20. BY AMOS R. WELLS.

You are not too young to bring others to Christ. A missionary in India was sent for to go into an obscure village and baptize to go into an obscure village and baptize seventy adult native converts. He was extantining the candidates when he saw in the corner a lad of 15, and questioned him. When he learned that he, too, wanted to join the church, the missionary urged him to wait until he was older, and confirmed in the faith. At once all the people sprang up and cried: "Why, sir, he is the one who taught us all we know about Christ."

You are not too insignificant to bring others to Christ. A torchlight procession started with dark torches which sprung into brilliance like magic as they passed a was seen there, sheltered, smiling with a lighted candle in his hand. You can be like that child.

You are not too ignorant to bring others to Christ. Reverend J. Hudson Taylor, the famous missionary to China. illustrates this truth with a candle. When do you expect it to give out light? When it is half burned down? No; as soon as you light it. The demoniac whom Christ healed wanted to remain with Christ, to learn from him; but Christ sent him away, to preach the gospel in ten cities.

Begin with the person next you. A man was once praying for an unconverted neighbor. "Touch him with thy finger, Lord!" Suddenly the thought came, "Am not I God's finger?" He speke to his neighbor, and won a soul for Christ. Spurgeon had the spirit of Andrew and Philip.

One day a lad was showing him to a church where he was to preach. He asked the boy, in his great-hearted way: "Do you love my Master?" The boy stopped and said: "Mr. Spurgeon, for years I have shown ministers to the church, and not one has ever asked me that question." The result was a new life for Christ.

Don't wait for others to ask you to bring them to Christ. An experienced bathingmaster says he has seen many men overcome in the water and all go down without a sound or an outery. It is the same with drowning souls, Christ would never have had that talk with the woman at Sychar if he had waited for her to begin it.

lesson follows immediately that of January 4. After assigning for study an account of Semetimes your victories will be in unexpected placed. The Hallenic mind was less trammeled than the Israelitish, brief drilled to judge dispassionacity and was less trammeled than the Israelitish, brief drilled. Here, as on other organic town its way into the social systems were many chief women, members of right-resolutive families. Here, as on other organic town its way into the social systems by securing the indorsement of women. Unless wives and motorers embraces the faith UFROAR—it was hardly to be expected that Paul would be allowed to pursue his min try unmodested at Thessalonica. Jeal of the property of served by the American Consul and deposited in the British Museam, where they may be seen. On these fragments are instriptions, still legable, showing that the city was governed by seven men. Among them appear the names of Sosipater, Ganis and Secundis, who, with Jason, probably became Christian ministers. (Acts xx.) ESCAPE—On the release of Jason from custody the mob seems to have dispersed. The rulers doubtlees interposed their cuthority to prevent further disturbance. That night the brethren sent Paul and Siles away. This was the second time the great apostite to the Gentiles took advantage of the darkness (Acts ix, 25) to escape his enemies. The flight was not due to cowardice; neither to unbelief. As at Philippi, so here could God anve protected him, and he was not the man to distrust the Almighty or to fear in the presence of danger. (Acts, xxi, ix). But there are times when prudential foresight, or spiritual prompting, or providential leading, demands that danger should be avoided, as there are other times when it shall calmly be met. It was a beautiful exhibition of frateralty that prompted these converts to provide a safe conduct out of the city, a proof that the work had thoroughly been done that made them Christians.

RECEPTION—Paul and Silas, under the except of the brethren, journeyed westward to Berea (verse 10), a populous and flourishing city, afterwards called Irenopolis, some fifty miles from Thessalonica. It lay at the foot if Mount Bermius in a beautiful valley. Here they entered into the synagogue of the Jews, by whom they were kindly treated and received. The response to their teachings was in direct contrast with that in the last named city. The word was not only received with readiness of mind, but the Scriptures were searched dally (verse II) to determine the correctness of the doctrine. In so doing there was manifested the genuine spirit of learners, willing to abide by the utterances of their own sacred books. (isa, xxiy, 16.) A true Jew reverenced Moses and the prophets (Luke xvi. 29 fourth established since Paul entered into Macedonia.

REFILECTION—Note the difference between the Jews of the sea-port town of Thessalonica and those in the secluded town of Berea. The former were bigoted and cruel, seeking the life of Paul, while among them, and pursuing him after his departure. (Verse 13.) The latter, open to conviction, lovers of the Scripture, were seekers after truth. The chyrches formed in these two cities reflected the characteristics of the people. The Boreans steadily grew, requiring no discipline or care, nourished by the word of God. The believers at Thessalonica were in constant trouble on doctrinal matters, principally relating to the life to come. They misunderstood the teachings of Paul concerning come. They misunderstood the teachings of Paul concerning the second advent of Christ (I Thess., Iv. 16), ceased to labor, and fell into many consequent improprieties. To set them right he was obliged to address two letters to them. Those letters confirm us in the opinion that the power of the truth depends largely on the soil in which it is deposited. (Matt. xill, 13-27.) Churches prosper according to the material of which they are composed

Life Insurance!

The Republic Enables You to Save One-Half of Your Life Insurance Premium.

The New Plan.

The Republic has arranged with the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society of New York, one of the leading old-line life ince companies, to furnish life insurance at a greatly reduced cost. Under the new plan The Republic enables policy holders to save half the premium on every policy issued, so the cost of carrying the policy is reduced one-half. A comparison of the rates paid under this new plan with the generally current rates charged by the industrial com-panies will make the advantages offered by The Republic apparent to any one.

How the Saving is Made.

The Republic enables policy holders to save half of every pre-mium under a new plan of life insurance, because its methods ent down the cost of getting and carrying policies. This is accomplished by dispensing with an expensive force of insurance solicitors, collect-ors, managers of offices, etc. The Republic's regular force of sub-scription canvassers and collectors attend to this work, thereby sur-ing hair the cost of administration. It is a large economy produced by the application of medium methods of organization and system. by the application of modern methods of organization and system.

This unusual saving on the insurance premium by this new plan goes entirely to the policy holder.

About the Provident.

The Provident Savings Life Assurance Society ranks among the strongest and best life insurance companies in America. Its business strongest and best life insurance companies in America. Its business policy is safe, conservative and wisely progressive. It is because of these facts that it has been selected by The Republic to carry out the new insurance plan. Double protection is secured where a newspaper, with a record of successful and continuous publication for nearly a century, is connected with the insurance contract.
